

The Treasure of GOLD

Max and Kate Book 2
(and Emma)

Introduction

Once upon a time lived the three Ravenclaw family children, Max, Kate, and their three-year-old sister Emma. Now if you've read the first book you'd understand that children have a special power called imagination, and these children will show it to you. This story takes place when they go to their grandparents house.

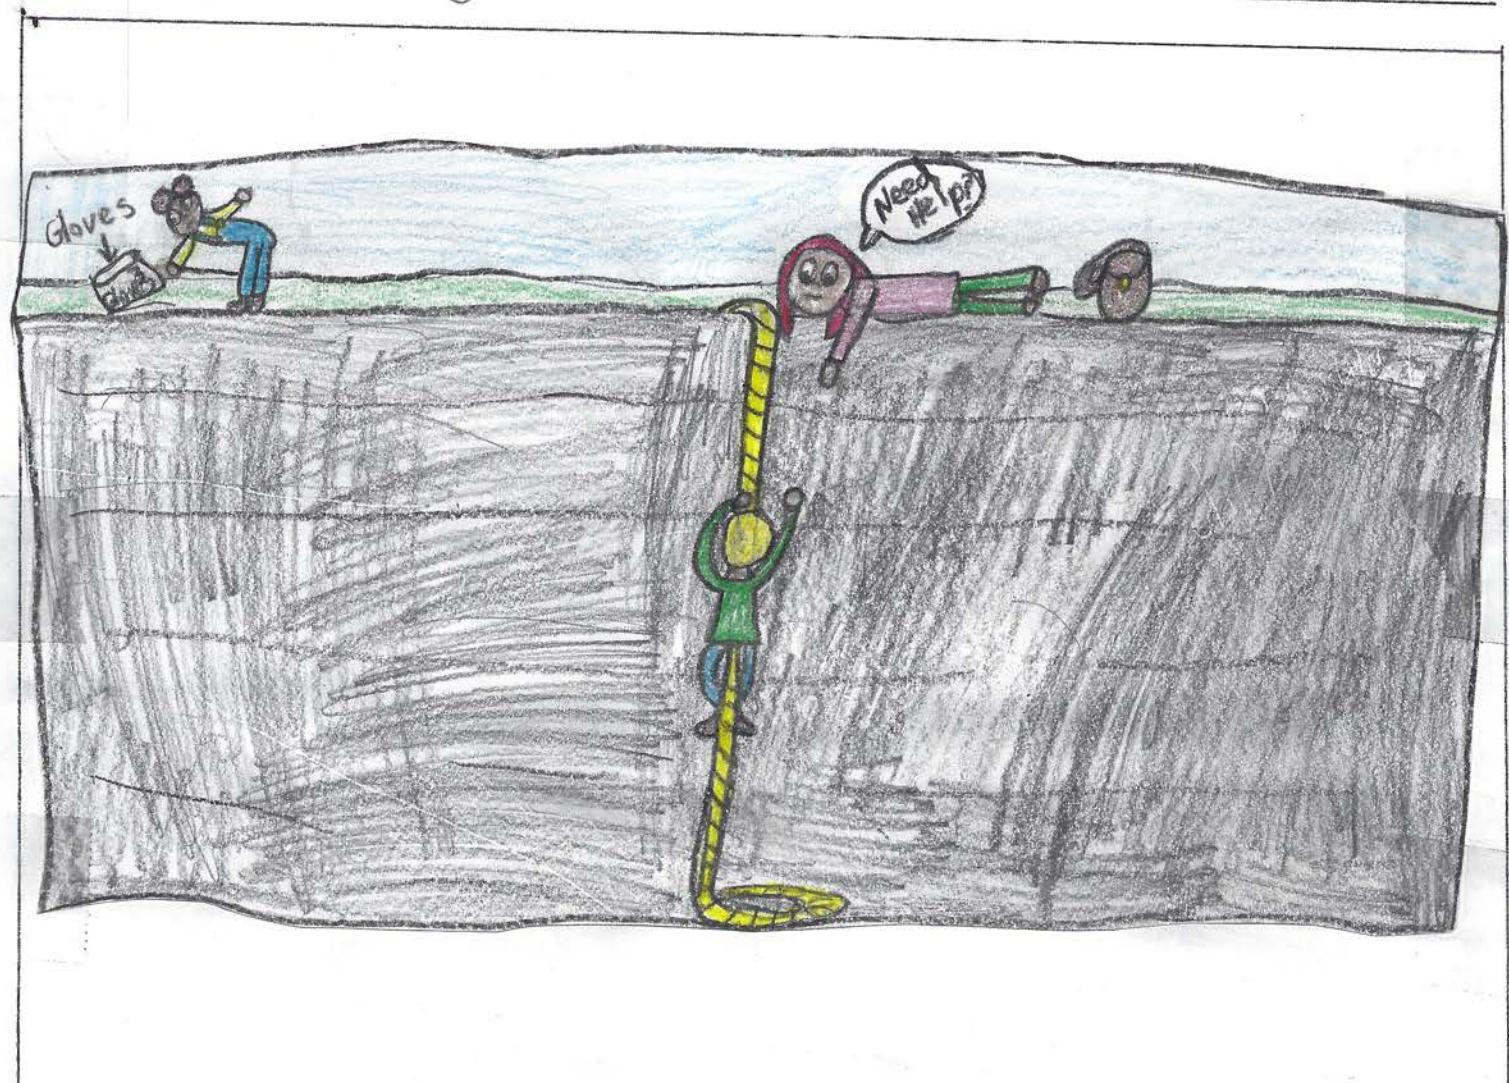

Story

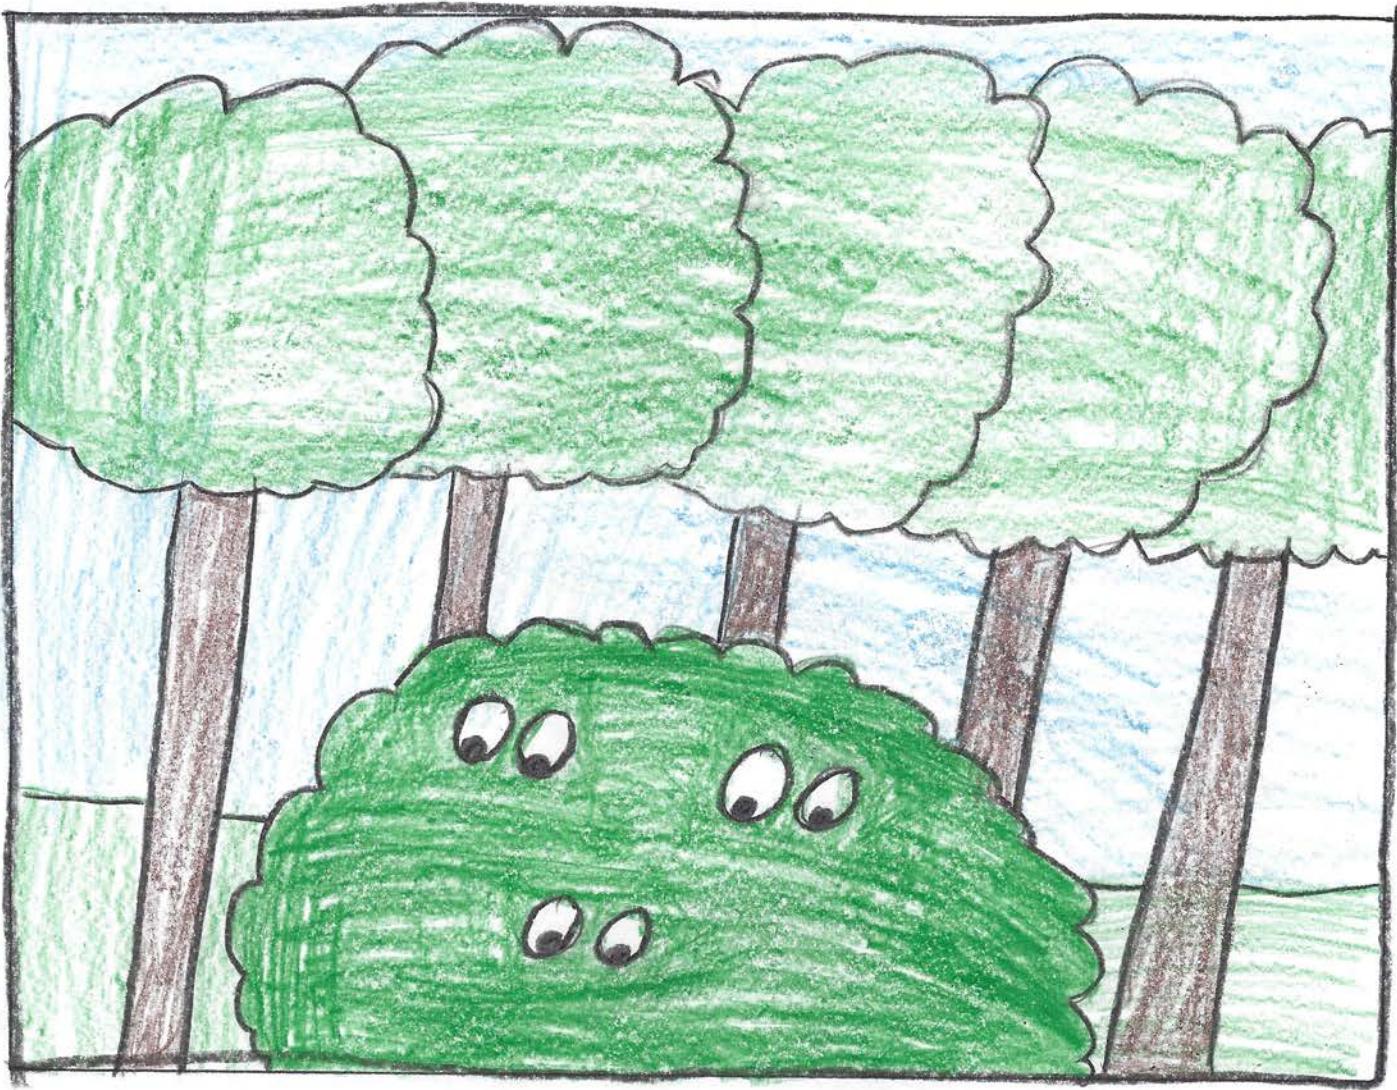

The Ravenclaw family was on their way to Colorado where their grandparents lived. From Kansas to Colorado was about an hour plane flight and then a drive to their cabin. Finally their grandparents door swung open and hugs cheered everyone up. After helping themselves to a snack the children went to go play. Suddenly Max gasped, right in front of him was a map. Kate decided it must be a treasure map. Soon the kids were out the door, determined to find the gold. The children packed a blowup raft, a long rope and a flashlight. Seconds later there was a howl a scream and a bone-chilling scare that made everyone step back!

In front of them was a pack of wolves. Frantically Kate pulled out the flashlight and shown it on the wolves. The light scared them and they retreated. "They scaa-wee," gasped Emma. "Now..., we take this route!" said Max. On the way, the children practiced their moves to avoid other animals they might pass. Suddenly there was a splash and yell, then silence!

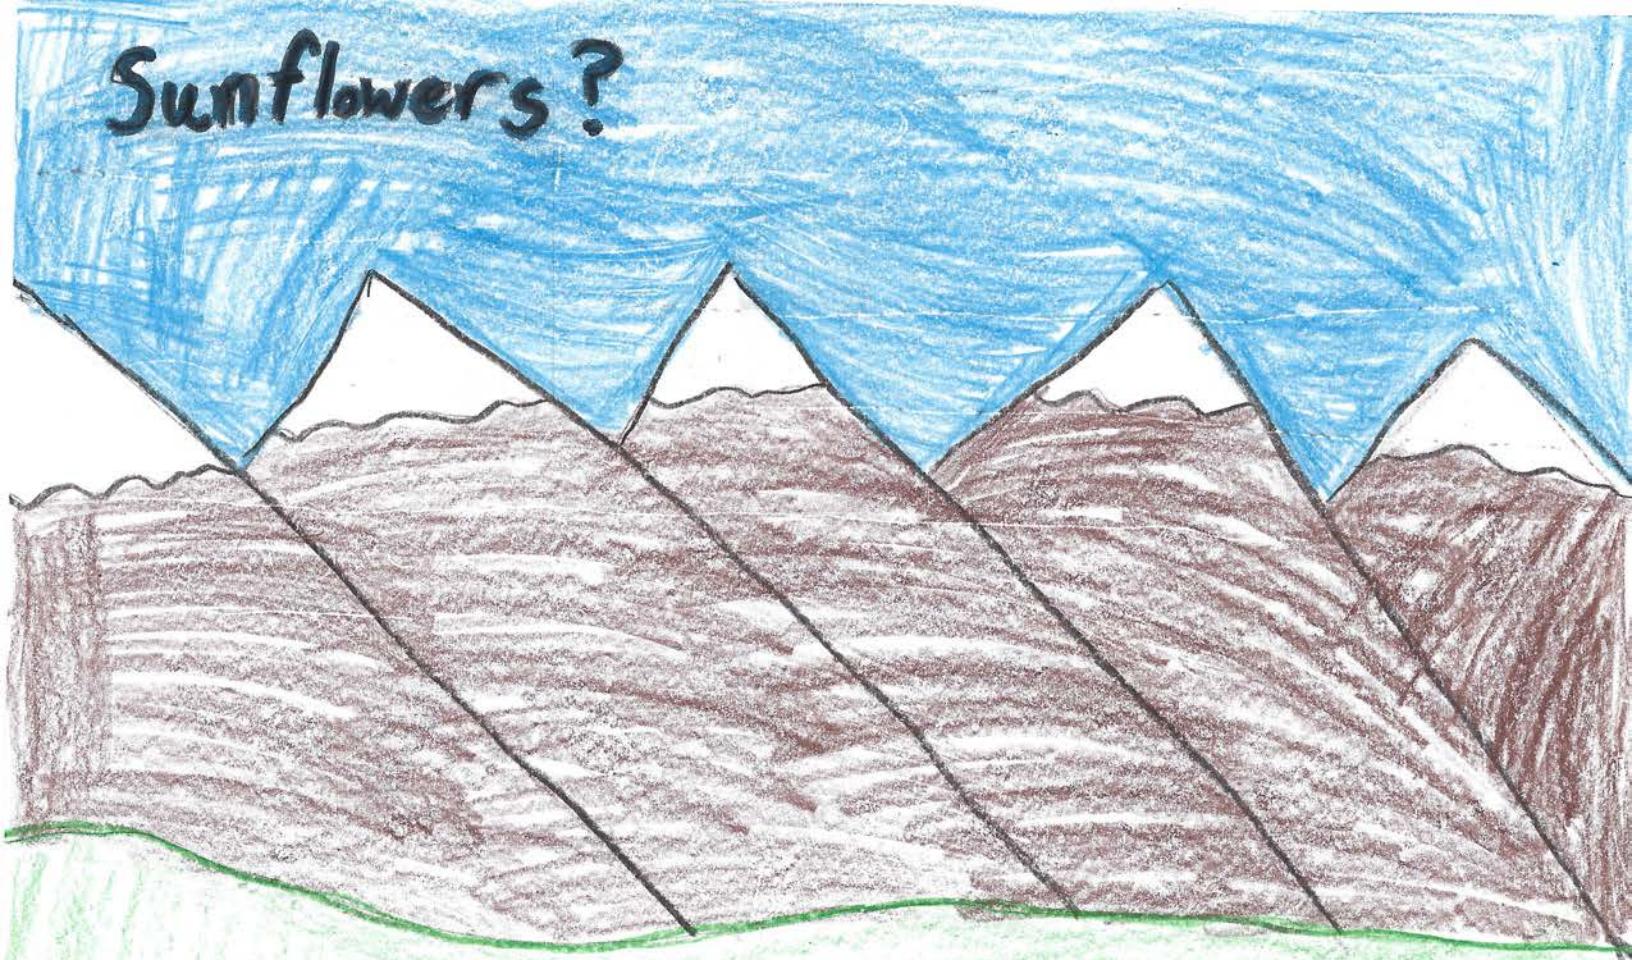

Emma had fallen into the ocean! Soon Max had blown up the raft, and Emma was on it. "I should have kept her in my sight," mumbled Kate. When they reached shore they took the twisting pathway but then Kate said "Did we go the wrong way?", for in front of them stood a TAAALLL cliff. "Don't worry, we can use the rope to climb," said Max. While Kate helped Max, Emma found three pairs of gloves and ran back.

Although everyone was tired, the map said to go strait into the woods. Finally they ducked into some bushes and found out the gold was.....
